Myrtle Fillmore Papers
3033

Summary Description

The papers of Myrtle Fillmore document primarily her work as correspondent for the Silent Unity Department of Unity School of Christianity. Myrtle Fillmore and her husband, Charles S. Fillmore, co-founded Unity School of Christianity, a New Thought, Christian, healing ministry based on affirmative prayer.

Most of the collection consists of incoming prayer request letters and typewritten carbon copies of Fillmore's outgoing correspondence between January 1928 and October 1931. They include some handwritten postscripts and drafts of letters. A much smaller portion of the collection contains incoming prayer request letters and typewritten carbon copies of Fillmore's outgoing correspondence between 1890 and 1927.

Of particular interest is a series of lessons from 1890 relating to the nature of God and humanity. Fillmore delivered some. Others may be notes from lectures, but all reveal the Christian Science influence of Emma Curtis Hopkins, a teacher of the Fillmores. A small assortment of notes and papers is related to Wee Wisdom, the children's magazine founded and edited by Myrtle Fillmore. Personal correspondence and ephemera comprise the remainder of the collection dating from 1853.

Quantity: 9 linear feet

Donor: Probably Lowell Fillmore and the Silent Unity Department, c. 1936

Access:

The collection is open with this note of caution regarding the Silent Unity Department File: researchers should note that Silent Unity correspondence was considered confidential between 1928 and 1931, as is current Silent Unity correspondence. Confidentiality was emphasized in each Silent Unity column in Unity magazine during the period. The Silent Unity Department File was likely saved only because it includes examples of Myrtle Fillmore's writing. Although most of the correspondents are no longer living, researchers are requested to use discretion regarding the use of personal portions of incoming and outgoing correspondence.

Copyright

Copyright interests and literary property rights relative to the papers of Myrtle Page Fillmore belong to Unity School of Christianity. Copies of material may be obtained for personal use only. Any other reproduction or publication of materials is not allowed without the expressed permission of Unity School of Christianity. Researchers are directed to secure permission to publish beyond fair use when copying and citing sources to materials obtained from the Archives' holdings.

Processing

Initial processing by David W. Jackson, Assistant Archivist and Fern I. Hunt, volunteer (1996); Further processing by Eric Eugene Page, Assistant Archivist and Mary Vincent, volunteer (1996 - 1999); Collection description and research by Eric Eugene Page (1999). Microfilming of the collection was completed in 2001 under the direction of Carolyn Stewart and Walter LeConte. Some sections of the collection – letter fragments, books, and photographs – were not filmed.

Scope and Content Note

The papers of Myrtle Fillmore document primarily her work as correspondent for the Silent Unity Department of Unity School of Christianity. Myrtle Fillmore and her husband, Charles S. Fillmore, co-founded Unity School of Christianity, a New Thought, Christian, healing ministry based on affirmative prayer.

Most of the collection consists of incoming prayer request letters and typewritten carbon copies of Fillmore's outgoing correspondence between January 1928 and October 1931. Some handwritten postscripts are included on some letters as well as some handwritten drafts of letters. A small portion of the collection contains incoming prayer request letters and typewritten carbon copies of Fillmore's outgoing correspondence between 1890 and 1927.

Of particular interest is a series of lessons from 1890 relating to the nature of God and humanity. Fillmore delivered some. At least one is a copy of a lecture by J. P. Harper. Others may be notes from lectures, but all reveal the Christian Science influence of Emma Curtis Hopkins, a teacher of the Fillmore's. Myrtle also founded Wee Wisdom and edited the children's magazine for many years. A small assortment of notes and papers related to Wee Wisdom is part of the collection. Personal correspondence and ephemera comprise the remainder of the collection dating from 1853.

The papers of Myrtle Fillmore provide researchers an opportunity to discover her personal warmth and compassion, intense care for others, strong desire to impart knowledge, dedication and commitment to advancing the Unity message, as well as her passionate conviction and deep faith in God. The collection is divided into five series: Christian Science Lessons, Wee Wisdom

Department, Silent Unity Department, Personal, and Posthumous.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LESSONS

The Christian Science Lesson File contains handwritten lessons regarding the nature of God and humanity. Myrtle and Charles Fillmore attended the Christian Science Theological Seminary in Chicago in December 1890 and both received an ordination certificate from the seminary. These lessons were likely a direct result of their experience in Chicago. Of the eleven lessons, four are clearly identified as Myrtle's, six are unidentified and one is identified a lesson by J. P. Harper, a seminary classmate of the Fillmore's. An article by Harper, based on the lesson, appeared in Unity, December 1890. The handwritten lectures have all been typewritten as well. The "The First Lesson in Christian Science" and "The Third Lesson in Christian Science" were significantly edited and printed in the book How to Let God Help You compiled by Warren Meyer. Chapters four, five, six, and seven of this book are based on these two lessons in Christian Science.

WEE WISDOM DEPARTMENT

The Wee Wisdom Department File contains a very small assortment of correspondence, notes and papers related to Wee Wisdom, Unity's magazine for children founded and edited by Myrtle Fillmore. Two folders include correspondence and submissions to the "Home Department," an early feature of the magazine. The documents date from 1894 to 1927.

SILENT UNITY DEPARTMENT

The Silent Unity Department File consists of incoming prayer request letters and typewritten carbon copies of Fillmore's outgoing correspondence between 1890 and 1931. While the smallest portion dates from 1890 to 1927, the majority of the file dates between January 1928 and October 1931. The correspondence written in the office of Myrtle Fillmore was considered confidential during the period 1928 to 1931. Note that confidentiality was emphasized in each Silent Unity column in Unity magazine. The January 1928 issue read, "All letters received by Silent Unity are kept confidential." Issues in 1930 and 1931 also make this distinction.

Work in the Myrtle Fillmore Office

Some people assert that Myrtle maintained her voluminous correspondence single-handedly. Others suspect that Myrtle's secretaries wrote most of her letters. References in the letters showed that Myrtle's involvement varied. She signed most of her letters "always loving," "yours in love and truth," or "lovingly always." Myrtle used the first person and hand wrote more personal letters to those people she knew well. Correspondents often addressed letters to both Charles and Myrtle Fillmore. Myrtle answered many of those letters as she did other more personal letters. Tradition claims she even learned to type later in life. The papers include some handwritten postscripts are included on some letters as well as some handwritten drafts of letters.

Myrtle also received assistance with her correspondence, especially during the last four years of her life. Myrtle's secretaries during the period 1928 - 1931 included, but were not limited to,

Clara Kellogg, Elizabeth Schaefer, and Ila White.<sup>1</sup> Cora Dedrick as well as other women served as secretaries earlier. Some of the outgoing letters are transcriptions from Fillmore's dictation as indicated by letters and handwritten notes within the collection. The personal nature of many of the letters and the news about her day demonstrate that she was actively involved in the ongoing task of responding to her many correspondents. The letters themselves reveal much about her work with her secretaries. In a June 18, 1929 letter to Clara Kellogg, Myrtle stated:

We are getting along nicely with the letters. The letters go a little behind and Silent Unity did something so lovely; they made a "bee" for me; they help with the letters. . . I really enjoyed it and I put postscripts when I thought the letters needed a little extra. . . You know how I love our boys and girls, and this little bee brought us closer together I believe.

In an August 27, 1929 letter to Flora Howard she referred to Elizabeth, "the young lady who works with me. . ." In an October 1, 1929 letter to Laura McFadin Myrtle added a note to the top of the carbon copy, "Well said M.F." In a December 5, 1929 letter to "Sunny Jim" she explained that she was on vacation and resting in her apartment, "my secretary brings the letters over here and takes notes on them, and then goes over to the office to complete the work." In a February 13, 1930 letter to "Aunt Ella" (Ella Berlinghoff) she wrote, "I know it will be a happy surprise for you to know that Clara is here, typing this letter for me. She joins me in love and blessings." In an April 11, 1930 letter to Elizabeth Schaefer it is stated: "Mrs. Fillmore is busy this afternoon. . . so she asked me to write to you. . . ." Those letters written by secretaries or other workers were simply signed "SILENT UNITY."

<sup>1</sup>The secretaries wrote their initials or first name in the upper-right hand corner of each incoming letter. Sometimes other notes were written. The names of the women were confirmed by "routing" sheets from the Silent Unity Department Records, Administration, Silent Unity

Silent Unity and Myrtle Fillmore set up systems for managing the voluminous correspondence. In of a June 23, 1931 letter to Miss Padelford, Myrtle seemed to emphasize the simple need for space in the office:

You requested that your letters written to us be returned to you. They are no longer in file (sic), because every so often we destroy the letters that accumulate, to make room for the flood of mail that is new.

They had learned to set retention schedule. The schedule may have been four years in the 1920s and 1930s. In the 1990s the retention schedule for Silent Unity letter was thirty days.

Cataloging the Silent Unity Correspondence

Research in the Silent Unity Department Records indicate that the prayer topics used by Silent Unity during the period 1928 to 1931, were nearly identical to those used in the 1990s, with a few exceptions. The topics are used as a designation in an effort to send appropriate letters based on prayer needs to individuals with whom Silent Unity is praying. The Telephone Prayer Ministry Topics of 1997 (“Toppers”) were used to designate the topics of the correspondence in this collection. The 1997 codes were used just as they were, with a few additions (see attached).

Myrtle and her staff often addressed several issues in one letter. In one letter she might offer prayer assistance for healing and employment, share personal insights and the latest news about Unity Farm. The codes provide researchers some idea of a few specific topics addressed by

Workers, 1922 to 1933.

Myrtle in each letter, but the codes certainly do not address all topics. Researchers interested in an in-depth study will not want to limit themselves to these codes. The application of the codes was also a subjective process.

PERSONAL AND POSTHUMOUS FILES

Personal File

The Personal File contains correspondence and private papers. The correspondence includes those to family and friends. Many are correspondence from before 1890. The file includes letters between Myrtle and Charles prior to their marriage. Other correspondences are with her children, grandchildren and relatives. Myrtle wrote often to her oldest sister Jane Munsell, niece Jennie Brookings, Jennie's husband Lu and grandniece Dorothy (Dot). She corresponded with her sister, Mrs. Henrietta (Hettie) Page Gaston and Henrietta's children, especially niece Lucy and occasionally with niece Ida Lathrop and Ida's husband Cyrus. Myrtle also kept in closed contact with her brothers David and Daniel Page. She wrote often to Daniel's daughter, her niece, Madeline Page Spencer (Madie), Madeline's husband "Cliff" and occasionally gave advice to her grandnephew Galen Spencer.

Myrtle also corresponded frequently with the family of her deceased daughter-in-law, Frances Sleater Fillmore, wife of Myrtle's son Royal. She often told them news about her granddaughter Frances and the news from Unity Farm when she wrote to the parents of the Sleater family, Innocencia Sleater and John Cooper Sleater. Their children and in-laws, Frances' aunts and uncles, included Elise Sleater, Marion and Wallis Jaquith, and the Biechler family.

She corresponded often with close friends who sometimes called her "Aunt Myrtle" or "Mother Myrtle" or other affectionate names. She corresponded often with Elizabeth Berlinghoff ("Aunt Ella"), Nina Free, Stella Paulus, Flora Reeder. She also wrote occasionally to the Landon and Wallace families. Theodore Wallace and his sister Tesla (Tessie) Wallace-Landon and their parents had been early participants in the Unity Society of Practical Christianity.

Correspondence from some individuals may be found in both this file and the Silent Unity Department File. The private papers contain Fillmore's graduation and ordination certificates, ephemera as well as announcements and cards saved by her.

Note: The Myrtle Fillmore Photograph scrapbook is found in the Graphic Arts Still Photograph, Slide, and Negative Collection. Artifacts of Myrtle Fillmore are stored with the Unity Archives Artifact Collection. See Artifact Accession #1942.1.1-24.

Posthumous File

The Posthumous File includes materials collected after Myrtle Fillmore's transition in 1931. These materials include articles about her and items related to her memorial service. The file also includes correspondence remembering Myrtle Fillmore (1945 to 1978). The correspondents who wrote Unity School also returned outgoing letters sent by Myrtle Fillmore (1878, 1922 to 1931). These outgoing letters are included in this file; some are duplicated in other portions of the collection.

ARCHIVIST'S NOTES

Primary Materials

Primary material relating to Myrtle Fillmore is found in several Unity Archives collections, including the Unity Society of Practical Christianity and the Unity Annual Conference materials. Unity School's Public Relations Department's News Clippings (Board Routing) yield published evidence of early happenings relative to the Unity movement. Valuable material can also be gleaned from manuscript collections, including the papers of Charles S. Fillmore, Lowell P. Fillmore, Mary G. Fillmore, W. Rickert Fillmore and J. Royal Fillmore. Photographic images of Myrtle Fillmore are stored with the Graphic Arts Still Photograph, Slide and Negative collection.

Secondary Materials

Researchers will find secondary source material about Myrtle Fillmore in the books:

Myrtle Fillmore: Mother of Unity by Thomas E. Witherspoon (Unity Books, 1977)

Story of Unity by James Dillet Freeman (Unity Books, Revised Edition 1978)

Torch-Bearer to Light the Way: The Life of Myrtle Fillmore by Neil Vahle

(Mill Valley, California: Open View Press, 1996).

Arrangement of The Papers of Myrtle Fillmore

The original order of the papers of Myrtle Fillmore could not be determined. Series were arranged by placing like materials together. The largest portion of the collection reincorporated were the original boxes 18, 19, 20. These boxes contained letters that were likely pulled from the Myrtle Fillmore papers for research on the book Letters of Myrtle Fillmore. The book was edited by Francis Foulkes in 1936. The book was retitled Myrtle Fillmore's Healing Letters in 1954. Box 18 contained affirmations, ephemera, personal correspondence and general correspondence.

Box 19 and 20 contained Silent Unity correspondence from January 1928 to October 1931.

A newly acquired box of materials was found in the Administration Building Archives Annex Room on April 21, 1998 by Carolyn Stewart, Archivist and Eric Page, Assistant Archivist. The location of the papers prior to this is unknown, as they had not been part of the papers of Myrtle Fillmore in the Unity Archives or the inventory of Annex holdings. The materials appeared to have been pulled from the papers for research on the book Letters of Myrtle Fillmore. These also include excerpts of the letters, possible “editorial” notes. The papers were located in a fragile Berkowitz Envelope Company Box. The box also contained a large piece of brown wrapping paper. Two notes appear on the wrapping paper: “Frances Foulks Unity Farm” and “copy parts marked.” The correspondences date from January to June 1931, although there is one letter from March 1928. Portions of the response letters are marked with a pencil. The “editorial” notes are typewritten on half-pages like many of the editorial notes for other Unity books from the period. Presumably not all of the excerpts were used in the book, although some were verified.

Copies of the originals from boxes 18, 19, 20 and the newly acquired box have been made and placed in Editorial Department Records. The originals have been reintegrated into the papers of Myrtle Fillmore.
